Denis Rancourt

*Recognized today for building
Canada's future.*

Clean water is essential to our survival. The University of Ottawa's Denis Rancourt heads the Lake Sediment Structure and Evolution (LSSE) group to develop a new model of lake sediment aging. LSSE's work will provide insight as to how a lake responds to environmental changes and will allow the prediction and avoidance of catastrophic ecological events that are becoming more common worldwide.

The University of Ottawa makes yet another significant contribution to the lives of people in Canada and throughout the world.
